SENATE OVERRIDES LABOR VETO

Russia Joins European Aid Talks

THREE NATIONS TO OPEN PARIS PARLEY FRIDAY

Moscow Says Soviet Union Will Cooperate on Plan Proposed by Marshall.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 23—Russia announced today she would join Britain and France in a conference on American aid to Europe, and France called the three European foreign ministers to meet in Paris Friday.

The French foreign ministry said it would be happy to welcome Russia's V. M. Molotov and Britain's Ernest Bevin to join Georges Bidault of France in the discussions. The French expressed "lively satisfaction" at the Soviet suggestion that the meeting begin Friday.

Bevin's Statement

In London, Bevin told the house of commons:

"The Soviet government agrees that the primary problem of European countries at present is the quickest possible reconstruction and further development of their national economy which has been destroyed by the war."

The Russian announcement was reported in a dispatch of Tass, official news agency, broadcast over the Moscow radio and heard here.

An authoritative British government source said Britain "welcomes" the Russian decision to join preliminary talks on U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall's proposal.

A French foreign ministry source said in Paris, "We are satisfied with the Russian acceptance."

Acceptance Delivered

The official acceptance, it was learned, was delivered by Russian Charge d'Affairs Ivan Avalov yesterday to Foreign Minister Georges Bidault at Rambouillet, near Paris, where Bidault was weekending.

William L. Clayton, U. S. under secretary of state for economic affairs, who arrived in London yesterday, was expected to begin meetings today with Bevin and other cabinet ministers on the proposed aid program.

British government informants looked for him to propose that a U. S. observer attend the British-Soviet-French talks. They mentioned Paul Porter, head of the U. S. mission for economic affairs.

Only 5 Days Remain of U. S. Control Over Nation's Mines

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, June 23—The nation's soft coal mines today began their last five days of production under government control with no sign that a new contract will be written in time to guarantee their reopening July 7.

If a mine stoppage does develop then, it may provide the first test of the emergency strike provisions of the Taft-Hartley labor bill which now seems certain to be written into law over President Truman's veto.

Some 400,000 soft coal diggers will begin a 10-day vacation on Friday. They will receive the $100 annual vacation payment provided under the agreement between Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug and John L. Lewis.

Capt. H. N. Collisson, federal administrator of the 2,500 seized mines, still hopes there will be a new agreement between operators and Lewis when the vacation ends.

Meetings at Standstill

The two parties have held no meetings since May 31 for the northern and western mines and since June 4 for the south. The talks broke down over Lewis' demands for a 35 cents an hour pay increase, increase from five to 10 cents a ton in the health and welfare fund, bargaining rights for supervisory employes and inclusion of the federal safety code in the new contract.

The Taft-Hartley labor bill restricts health and welfare funds, bans bargaining rights for supervisors, and outlaws the closed shop. In view of this, producers and Lewis decided to hold off further talks until the fate of the bill was determined.

The Krug-Lewis contract will end with the nation's soft coal reserves at the lowest on record at contract termination time.

A work stoppage beginning July 7 would curtail industrial production drastically in three weeks' time, according to government officials.

Course To Delay Strike

Supporters of the Taft-Hartley bill said its national emergencies provisions could be invoked by President Truman to end such a strike.

The measure permits, but does not require, the President to name a board of inquiry whenever he feels that a strike imperils the national health. After the board reports, he may or may not ask the attorney general to seek an injunction in federal court to require the men to return to work.

Under the court order, the miners would have to return to work for 80 days. At the end of 60 days, if the dispute is unsettled, the board of inquiry shall make another report to the President and a statement of the employer's last offer of settlement. The national labor relations board would poll the miners in the next 15 days on whether they would accept the offer or strike. Five days after completion of the vote, the attorney general would be required to ask dissolution of the injunction, the miners would then be free to strike and the whole dispute be referred to congress.

16 KILLED IN FLASH FLOODS

South-Central Nebraska Hard Hit as Foot of Rain Falls; Four Are Missing.

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Neb., June 23—Flash floods and tornados which caught many of their victims in bed and left a toll of at least 16 dead and missing in Nebraska today as workmen sought to restore communication to isolated communities.

Hardest hit was this south-central Nebraska town where at least nine were drowned by a 12-foot wall of muddy water discharged from Medicine creek yesterday. An additional four were missing here. Two others drowned 60 miles northeast of here when their car, striking a highway washout, hurtled into a flooded creek.

Caught in their beds by the dawn flash flood, many residents of this community of 1,100 frantically chopped holes in roofs and climbed trees to escape the wall of water, reported to be 12 feet deep. Altogether, 196 were taken by boats and trucks from trees and housetops.

More Than Foot of Rain

Cloudbursts ranging up to an unofficial "12 to 13 inches at Burwell, Neb., sent streams over their banks throughout the state. Along with high winds and tornados, these left many communities without either telephone or telegraphic communication.

In north central Nebraska, half the town of North Loup was inundated. Flood damage about 50 miles east of Broken Bow, where the Rev. Thomas Mitchell said "12 to 13 inches" of rain fell, was estimated by Newspaper Editor George P. Porter at $30,000. Ashland in eastern Nebraska had its fourth flood of the year.

Tornadoes which struck at Loomis, Oxford and Gothenburg, Neb., left one dead, injured at least nine persons and added farm property damage to mounting crop losses. Already sodden by previous floods and incessant rains, thousands of rich cropland acres were unable to absorb the new rain, which was left standing to choke off much wheat and corn.

Air Force Aids

Tetanus and anti-typhoid injections were flown into Cambridge by the Second Air Force at the request of the Red Cross. Cambridge's city water system failed and the Red Cross arranged for provision of Lister bags to purify drinking water.

Houses were sent sprawling from their foundations and large slabs of pavement shifted by the waters which boiled through Cambridge.

Mayor Lloyd C. Richardson estimated the Cambridge homeless at 100.

As the storm moved eastward hundreds of miles of railroad track were washed out and new flooding occurred. The Burlington railroad reported only one line of its Nebraska network was open yesterday.

Scientists Report Vaccination Of Monkeys for Polio Success

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, June 23—Three Johns Hopkins scientists reported today they have successfully vaccinated monkeys against infantile paralysis.

It is the first time the "microscope corps" in the fight against poliomyelitis has ever achieved wha the Hopkins people call "solid immunity."

The time when you can have the family doctor give your children "shots" against polio still seems far off. However, the work by Drs. Isabel Morgan, Howard A. Howe and David Bodian at the Hopkins poliomyelitis research center may have brought it a step nearer.

They used an "active polio virus to immunize the monkeys, injecting it into their muscles.

On the basis of what they know now, the doctors figure it would be too dangerous to give a child a shot of live virus. It might bring on a deadly attack of the disease.

Ordinary vaccines do not use such powerful infections matter. They excite the system into producing "anti-bodies" which fight the virus of a disease, without causing an attack of the disease itself.

The Hopkins doctors told about their work in the American Journal of Hygiene.

They vaccinated 25 monkeys with muscle injections at least four times. Some had as many as 15 shots in four months. Others were vaccinated just three times. Others received shots just under the skin, some got the dosage in their veins. Some weren't vaccinated at all.

Inject in Brain

After the monkeys had time to work up anti-bodies in their systems, the doctors injected live polio virus right into their brains.

The doctors estimated these brain injections were thousands of times more deadly than any infection a man might pick up naturally.

None of the monkeys which had at least four muscle vaccinations developed paralysis after their brains were infected. All the others showed "no significant resistance." The 21 not vaccinated all developed paralysis.

Scientists have worked out a way of measuring resistance to polio—the effectiveness of anti-bodies which attack the polio virus. They call it the "titer." It is expressed in terms of "one in 15," "one in 75," "one in 1,000," etc.

The monkeys which developed solid immunity had titers as high as one in 8,000. The doctors said they believe this is the highest ever recorded.

Human Ratio Unknown

They do not know yet what titer is necessary to protect a human being against polio.

The Hopkins team said it found in the central nervous system of the convalescing monkeys the anti-body which neutralizes the polio virus, with remarkably high concentrations in the severely affected areas.

This was a hint the researchers may someday be able to develop a vaccine for humans.

It has taken the Hopkins center five years to get this far along in the search for ways to prevent and cure polio. The specialists already have used $732,000 in "March of Dimes" money.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has just given the team $425,000 more for the next five years. Perhaps in that time they can find a safe vaccine for human beings. Other polio research centers are working on it too.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Old Age

No time in life is without its problems, but those which come with old age are, as a rule, more tinged with sadness than are those of any other period, and for this reason deserve more sympathetic attention than they are sometimes given.

Think of what is means to grow old! No matter how much may have been accomplished in the past, vigor is gradually diminished. Life's activities must be curtailed. Old friends vanish and lasting new ones are not easily made during the declining years.

Little by little, the aging individual begins to feel that the world with its hurry and bustle, its vast array of events, its charm and interest is passing him by. And as he stands aside for a last, long farewell look, he is gripped with a feeling of tremendous loneliness.

Along with this, his physical condition also declines. He has no ability as a wage earner, and often finds himself dependent upon children, friends or others. As a result, he feels insecure, and these feelings of loneliness and insecurity have a marked effect upon his personality.

Such an elderly persons feels that he is in the way, that he is not wanted, and that he is a burden and a bother to others.

On the other hand, when elderly persons live with their children, the old folk, as a rule, cramp the children's activities, often are generally troublesome and are never satisfied with the care with which they are provided. All of these things lead to even more anxiety on the part of the aging individual. It is no wonder then that many elderly persons crack under the strain and develop emotional disturbances.

Probably the most important of all these factors in producing emotional upsets, is the feeling of insecurity, which in turn leads to fears and anxiety.

Thus, it is important to try to develop in the aging person a feeling of hope and confidence in himself and an outlook on life that includes cheerfulness.

Development of interests in the aging person is also important. There are many types of social activities toward which the elderly person's interest may be turned. He should be encouraged to do things that are worthwhile, because he will get a great deal of satisfaction out of accomplishment, and this in turn will help overcome the feeling of uselessness which is often present.

Over-protection of an elderly person by children may be as bad as inattention. Children often completely advise, nag and beg the aging person not to undertake any physical activities to which he has been accustomed. If the elderly person accedes to these requests, he is usually unhappy in doing so, and he feels suppressed, and, as a result, emotional upsets occur which are responsible for conflicts and unhappiness.

The elderly person can be a happy, serene individual if some attention is given to these important matters.

Ex-Captain Wants Look at Reich He Fought

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—The American frontier is the world.

One of the men who made it that in Europe is former Capt. Phillip J. Sinnott Jr., of San Francisco, liaison officer with the battle-happy Sixty-Ninth Infantry division. He is an old friend from war days who wants to see what the peace has come to.

Hal Boyle

The 69th division was an outfit new to battle which stumbled to immortal glory by sealing the capture of Leipzig and contacting the Russian army vanguard in an unforgettable meeting which ended the European phase of World War II along the river Elbe.

The taking of Leipzig 26 months ago was a dubious military adventure. The Second Infantry division—a combat-wise outfit—was pushing from the west, but the 69th decided that the honor of capturing this German stronghold must come to it.

Create Task Force

So the division created a task force of some 16 tanks and 184 doughboys and sent them in to clean out Nazi resistance and to take the fortified City hall.

Only 65 doughboys were still in fighting condition when the task force finished battering in the City hall fortress, where the poison-killed corpses of the burgomeister and his assistant—as well as their wives and daughters—bore testimony to the dramatic decline of the Nazi cause.

It was a great charge that deserves to live in American military history—a charge against the heaviest concentration of German anti-aircraft guns and small arms fire still existing in western Europe.

"Everybody was trying to climb into his helmet," recalled Capt. Sinnott. So we were.

Yielded To Russians

This blood-won territory was subsequently yielded up to Russian control under a previous grand-scale military agreement that still exists. Americans won the territory under fire and gave it up to Russians who took it over without loss of life of military struggle. The Russians are still there.

Now 26-yead-old Sinnott, his rank forsaken, is shipping as a yeoman on a ship leaving for Japan to pick up German war prisoners destined for their return to their fatherland.

"I want eventually to teach economic geography," he said, "and I think the more I get around the better."

So he is going back as a kind of scholarly seaman tourist to see what has happened in two years to the Germany he helped to defeat by force of arms in wartime.

He thinks that is something the American ex-servicemen will like to keep informed on—since Germany is the key to the world content he hopes will come from the half-forgotten sacrifices they made.

Senate Worn Out After Long Effort To Block Labor Vote

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 23—Today the senate votes, if it is able, on whether to override President Truman's labor bill veto.

I mean physically able. Our lawmakers are done in. They're tuckered out. One more blast of hot air and they'll topple; another sheaf of insulting telegrams and they'l crumple. It's been a long time since they've mixed in a battle the likes of this and they are in what diagnosticians call a weakened condition.

Take Sen. Glen H. Taylor of Idaho, who used to be a handsome troubador. When he finished eight hours and 20 minutes of denouncing those who would deify President Truman, he was a wreck. Only his curly hair looked normal; the rest of him was one deep-lined wrinkle.

So he went out then and fell into bed. When he returned to the fray he looked no better. His pants were pressed, but his face resembled John Carradine's.

Another Takes Over

While Idaho's best-known guitarist slumbered through the dawn, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was taking up where he left off. The sun had not risen when Sen. Morse began to sip tea, water, milk and orange juice in that order while he delivered (by my count) 72,000 well-chosen words on the subject.

That's a lot of words to slide non-stop past a fellow's tonsils and it takes a while for the sliding. The gentleman from Oregon talked nine hours and 59 minutes with never a stop, never a chance to sit down, and only an occasional opportunity to lean on his desk.

Leaning, when a senator is filibustering, seems to be against the rules. He's got to stand up straight and suffer, or take a chance of losing the floor. Morse suffered and while he did so, his whiskers kept growing. His skin was sallow in the first place; by the 10th hour it looked dark blue.

Still No Rest

It was no bluer than his listeners felt. The oratorical horrors which I am describing took place Saturday. Sunday the senators got not too much chance to sleep because of phone calls from gents who wanted to high-pressure 'em one way or the other.

What I'm driving at in my own awkward way is that it's as rough to listen to a filibuster, as to be one. The gentlemen who had to hear the talkathons of the Messrs. Taylor, Morse, James E. Murray of Montana and others, in the main are elderly. It it difficult for them to sleep sitting up, particularly when somebody is shouting at 'em.

So it was that they rose today with joints a-creak and eyes lined red; with mouths tasting dry as the reading clerk's journal and ears buzzing with oratory like a busted phonograph record. They tottered toward their sanctum, where the air-cooling system inevitably gives up the struggle against the human generators of super-heated hot air.

HARDIN CO. FARMERS SEEK FLOOD CONTROL

Ask Formation of Conservancy District in Area.

Special to The Star

KENTON, June 23—Farmers of northern Hardin county hard hit by spring floods for the third consecutive year, are signing petitions asking for federal relief through the formation of a 15-county Maumee valley conservancy district as a result of a meeting in Ada.

Local farmers, many of them from the water-logged Hog creek area where crops have been flooded out again this spring with enormous losses, attended the meeting at the municipal building and heard leaders of the drainage movement from Defiance county explain how relief could be obtained.

Eight of Hardin county's 15 townships would be affected by the formation of a Maumee valley conservancy district. They are, Liberty, Washington, Blanchard, Jackson and parts of Cessna, Marion, Pleasant and Goshen. The southern townships lie wholly in the Scioto conservancy district.

Marion Eagles Quartet Again Awarded State Championship

The quartet from Buckeye Aerie No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, again emerged champions in a competition for lodge quartets held Saturday night during the Eagles state convention in Columbus.

drrnstp -ortrstp hijl ' IOI4

The quartet, comprising John McAndrew, Warren Augenstein, Robert Heimlish and A. A. Ward with Paul Malloy as pianist, have been together approximately 10 years and have previously been acclaimed national champions five times. This year is the first time that a state competition has been held first to select the state quartet who will compete at the national convention. Previously several quartets would be heard from each state.

Quartets who appeared Saturday included the winners from the following lodges: Marion Cheviot, O., Zanesville and East Akron, who appeared in the zone elimination contests held at Cologurous, Toledo, Zanesville and Akron, respectively.

The award received Saturday by the Marion group is a large gold eagle standing about 18 inches high with 10-inch wingspread. The trophy includes a plaque engraved with the names of the quartet, the year and the number of the Marion lodge. It will be displayed at the Eagles clubrooms.

The competitive event is the first to be held since the war. In addition to the quartet members some 20 persons attended from the Marion lodge.

The Eagles' band from Marion under the direction of Oscar Mueller played Saturday night at the Neil House and also participated in the parade Sunday.

John A. Abel of Kansas City, formerly of Marion was the principal speaker.

The Ohio aerie of Eagles listed a thousand newly initiated members today as it closed its 43rd convention in Columbus, The Associated Press reported. The candidates were inducted in mass ceremonies high-lighting yesterday's session.

Leonard Mares of Cleveland was installed as state president of the Lodge, and Cleveland was named as 1942 convention city.

BLIZZARD HITS WESTERN PARK

70 Vacationists Marooned at Yellowstone When Snow Blocks Roads.

By The Associated Press

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo., June 23 — Lights from a tiny trailer were something out of heaven" to one of 70 summer vacationists seeking refuge from a howling weekend blizzard which trapped them on a barren mountain pass, killing three persons and injuring at least four others.

And when Bob Helm of Missoula, Mont., member of a volunteer patrol of ex-Army ski troopers, reached the drift-covered trailer, owned by a Dr. Engelberg of Sacramento, Calif., he found 17 persons, nine of them children, huddled around its tiny stove for warmth "exceedingly happy to see us."

Others Rescued

Other persons, dug out of trapped cars by the patrol and national park service crews operating huge snowplows were carried to safety on toboggans and then autos after more than 24 harrowing hours.

Search for the stranded tourists was ended late last night when Park Superintendent Edmund Rogers said all persons had been accounted for and all but four autos towed to safety.

The search began early Saturday when word reached park headquarters that a blizzard, accompanied by winds up to 75 miles an hour was piling up 15-foot drifts on two-mile-high Beartooth pass between the northeast corner of Yellowstone park and Red Lodge, Mont.

Rescuers stumbled on the bodies of the three dead when they fell through a drift onto the top of a buried truck in which three park service road employes had traveled in a futile attempt to obtain aid.

Park officials identified the dead, apparently asphyxiated, as Vernon Kaiser, about 55, Idaho Falls, Idaho, Richard Huckels Akron, O., and John P. Baker, 40, Grayling, Mont.

Everyone Calm

G. J. Rowe, Luck, Wis., school principal, told reporters that "there was no panic; everyone kept his head." Rowe, who huddled under a single blanket in his car with his wife and three small children after trying futilely to

Weak, Watery Blood Blamed for Making Men and Women Look and Feel Older

THAN THEIR YEARS

How do you feel at the end of a day? Is that old time pep and drive lacking? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Thousands now regaining glowing good looks and vitality through the release of vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways no appetite, underweight no energy a general run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. The entire staff at the Hughes Funeral Home has but one thought in serving our patrons. It is to do carefully and well all of the things we would appreciate having done for us if we were receiving that service.
Hughes Funeral Service was founded upon that basis when our own establishment was opened ten years ago. The idea was far from new then for it is the simple application in daily business life of the rule of conduct given us by the greatest Teacher of all time.
Our patrons often seem surprised to find that a funeral organization can be guided by such principles. They also find that those same principles bring a surprisingly small charge for the high grade service they receive.

The Politics of It

THE POLITICS of President Truman's tax and labor bill vetoes is fundamental. He can't be blamed for playing his chances for what they're worth, even if the chances don't seem to be worth much.

Mr. Truman must make an issue with the Republican party and its presidential nominee in 1948. To make the issue he has begun to move toward the political left where Henry Wallace is threatening to exercise squatters' rights and split the balance-of-power vote.

This balance-of-power vote is the key to the whole business. It is composed of persons who aren't likely to vote for Republicans under any circumstances, but can be persuaded under some circumstances to vote for Democrats These persons are the secret weapon of the New Deal. They are the ones who have been flocking to hear Wallace They're the ones who stayed away from the polls in droves last November, because their interest wasn't stirred by the issues.

Mr. Truman is trying to stir their interest. Practical politics in the Democratic party consists of holding the Solid South and machine voting all the Democratic strongholds in the urban North. With that as a nucleus, plus the balance-of-power vote from the frantic fringe that thinks Wallace is the white hope of the world, Mr. Truman and his advisers think they might win the presidency in 1948. A man can't be blamed for trying. Those who charge Mr. Truman with playing politics, which he is, need to bear in mind that everybody else is playing politics too. It's the national game.

Oil for Russia

NEWS of an impending gasoline shortage doesn't give with the report of 12 tankers being loaded at Los Angeles with 600,000 barrels of oil for Russia. What makes it all the more ironic is that the tankers are American-owned lend-lease vessels which Russia has refused to return respite several requests by the state department.

One of the reasons for the impending gasoline shortage is a lack of tankers for coastal transport. The tankers on loan to Russia would come in very handy just now. U. S. Representative Dewey Short says we have the moral and legal right to seize them but we probably won't. We'll let the Russians carry of our oil in our tankers while they promote their expansionist tactics on many fronts.

Is it any wonder we're known over a good part of the world as Uncle Sap?

New Argentine Ambassador

APPOINTMENT of James Bruce as ambassador to Argentina is another step toward stabilizing our relations with the Peron government. Acceptance of Argentina as a participant in the hemisphere defense conference is a move in the right direction.

Our relations with Argentina since the advent of the Peron regime have been confused because of conflict within the state department. Officials responsible for the conflict either are no longer with the department or their differences have been reconciled.

The Peron government isn't a model democracy in action, but we have decided the wiser course is to cultivate its good will. By being represented in Buenos Aires by a democratic-minded efficient diplomat on cordial terms with Argentine officials, we hope to develop Argentina's friendship while presenting democracy's cause in the most systematic light.

Greece Promises

IN RETURN for aid under the Truman doctrine, Greece promises she will undertake a program of internal reform. She says she will encourage democratic organizations, protect labor, restrain "excesses and extravagances on the part of any segment of the population," limit imports to essentials and effect a general improvement throughout the government's administrative branches.

These are brave promises the Greeks make. According to Athens observers, the present Greek regime incorporates most of the worst aspects of the typical Balkan government. The nation is without a middle class, having only the many miserably poor and the few exceedingly rich. Doubtless many of the latter anticipated a chance for acquiring riches in the influx of American aid.

If we help Greece in establishing a democratic regime free of the unwholesome influences of the past, our expenditure will have been a worthwhile investment. But it will necessitate one of the biggest cleanups in that part of the world since Hercules diverted two rivers through the Augean stables to clean them.

SLOW PROCESS

News Behind the News

War Fears Seen as Basis of Conference Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 23—The rise of war fears was behind the Bevin-Bidault plan to get Russia into a three-way relief conference next month. The Communist seizure of Hungary generated the apprehension. The Vatican newspaper has been advertising the threat strongly, urging that Russia and the United States get together on at least something peaceful. Ex-brain truster Adolph Berle was loudly applauded when he told a union convention that the Hungarian development pointed the quickest way to World War III.

Then certain high quarters in France received a private diplomatic tip that Russia might possibly be led back to negotiations on co-operative European relief because her tactics were proving increasingly unpopular throughout the Balkans. She was in great danger of having her occupations embarrassed by local resistance which had, in several countries, developed far more seriously and subtly than publicly known in this country. She might possibly want to improve her popularity by getting some aid into these hungary nations which she cannot feed or aid much This was the inside information on which Messrs. Bevin and Bidault issued the invitation to Moscow.

Called "Pressure Politics"

But the dark and cloudlike forebodings of a general war are interpreted here as only the shiny side of diplomatic vapor. To put it specifically, the Communist seizure of Hungary is accepted officially as a Moscow answer to the Truman policy of aid to Greece and Turkey. Some disagree, but basically this is true even though little is said aloud. The whole game is described as one of pressure politics, which could hardly lead to war in view of these following circumstances.

The premise upon which the Truman policy was built is that Russia cannot think of war. She largely thwarted administration plans of a co-operative peace, obviously stalling in expectation of restoring herself militarily and economically within perhaps five to ten years. Military reports still indicate she has no material or food for extended or expansive world action. There are some few people in the military group here who would like to "get it over with" as far as Russia is concerned, but there are no visible signs that anyone high in the administration has war in view. The prevailing opinion is that this nation must use strong diplomacy to resist Russia's negation of the peace, and establish affirmative world political action to preserve the breath of individual freedom in democracy, else the whole world situation will deteriorate toward Russia.

From "Inside Reports"

The well-informed Vatican no doubt has been acting on inside reports which are available here that the Communists in Hungary have been "feverishly arming." The war possibilities are those which might arise from civil strife along the Danube. Confidential reports tell even of the use of Communist trucks stationed at strategic points in Hungary for distributing arms, and at least five towns which are strategically located have been named as centers for action

The state department interprets these moves as involving threats designed to generate fear of war, rather than war itself, and seems to be quite well satisfied with its policy, and agreeable as well to the Bevin-Bidault development. Numerous signs have been accumulating that the Russians are shifting or denting their iron curtain in greater understanding of world needs and the American position.

Actually, of course, this government has been able to do little effectively to enforce its demand for Hungarian independence. If financial aid were sharply severed, then the Communist regime would claim we were forcing starvation on the common people and the Reds might strengthen their popular position. Severance of diplomatic relations rarely works well. When you withdraw diplomatic relations you cut off your one source of information and impede yourself. The Soviets claim they are entitled to have the Red army in Hngary until the treaty is ratified and this may be years. In fact some of our state authorities suspect the Austrian treaty was blocked by Russia at the Moscow conference with an idea of keeping her army supplied there through Hungary. We can only justify ourselves before the world by pushing the matter up to the United Nations assembly or council and by similar methods of publicity.

Rooster-Silencer

A Boon To Mankind

Florida's agricultural extension service has discovered a means of keeping roosters from crowing.

This is the greatest aid to early morning sleeping since the invention of sponge-rubber horseshoes for milk wagon horses.

Now if someone will only perfect a flypaper noseguard, the late snoozer's lot will be complete.

The Florida formula for rooster silencing is as simple as the one-dollar question.

Roosters, reasoned the genius, have to stretch their necks to crow. Thus, to keep a rooster from crowing, merely place him in a box wherein there isn't room to stretch.

This proved practical and now everyone, with the possible exception of SPCA, should be happy.

I had considered the posibility of recommending the adoption of the principle for the silencing of campaigning politicians. But then I realized . . . .

Very few candidates ever stick their necks out anyway.

The Second Spot

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, June 3—There are plenty of signs that the cautious and rather spotty honeymoon between Harry Truman and the Eightieth congress will degenerate into an open and unseemly row before this session is over. And this is going to happen because the President has now flouted the congress's economic and political conservatism. Is the country as conservative as the congress" In this connection it is interesting that the outlook is for a three-cornered presidential race in 1948, and that the three tickets on which political wiseacres are offering the heaviest odds range from somewhere near political dead center to the extreme left.

After the usual complaints about the brutal Washington weather, the remark most commonly heard here is to the effect that "Dewey has the nomination in the bag unless he gets run over by a truck." It is well to bear in mind that in American politics only the unexpected can be confidently expected. Even so, for the moment Dewey is so universally acknowledged to be several long lengths in the lead that speculation is now beginning to center on the identity of his running mate.

Significant Meeting

This speculation was given an added fillip by Dewey's recent meetings with California's Governor Earl Warren and Minnesota's Harold Stassen. No one believes that these were purely social occasions Dewey himself has lately been about as communicative as Calvin Coolidge in his less boisterous moments, but Dewey's cryptic remark about the difficulties of persuading Warren to leave his native heath is taken to mean that Dewey has failed again, as he failed in 1940, to persuade Warren to accept the No. 2 place on his ticket. Second guessing here therefore centers on Harold Stassen.

As Dewey's running mate, Stassen would neatly complement the bristlingly efficient New York governor. A veteran from the West, he is admired by a strategic group of Republicans and independents, and he could help to carry certain key Middle ,Western states. Stassen may refuse second place before having a good try for first, but there is no doubt that a Stassen-Dewey ticket would be hard to beat. Stassen has often been called a liberal. In fact both men are perhaps a hair's breadth to the right of center, and stand for a rational, modern, effective conservatism. The Democrats could not easily pin the moss-back label on them.

Similar Situation

Truman is now so universally expected to run to succeed himself that here too there is more talk about the second place on the Democratic ticket. Truman's personal choice is known to be his old fishing companion, Mon C. Wallgren, governor of Washington.

The name of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is also cropping up with significant frequency. Both men are from the West. There is no doubt that Truman would feel more comfortable with his old friend Wallgren than with the brilliant, unpredictable Douglas. But Wallgren and Truman are much of a kind, whereas Douglas' vivid personality would better complement that of the affable but by no means colorful Truman. Moreover, Douglas is highly respected by the moribund but still politically essential New Deal wing of the party. And he would undoubtedly be acceptable to such key Democratic politicos as Postmaster General Robert Hannegan and his energetic assistant, Gael Sullivan, as well as to labor and the Democratic left.

Hat With String Attached

Yet in view of Henry Wallace's recent speech here, it might be the better part of wisdom for Wallgren to stay in Washington and for Douglas to keep his lifetime job on the bench. For what Wallace in fact did was to throw his hat into the ring; although he was careful first to attach a string to it so that he could yank it back in case of real trouble. At any rate, both Wallace's speech and a recent pronouncement by New York's Fiorello La Guardia have convinced observers here that the decision to form a third party has already been made. The signs also are that the ineffable Claude A. Pepper will hang on through his term in the senate, and that La Guardia, currently unemployed, will take second place on the "Peoples party" ticket, if some way can be found to get around the obstacle that the residence of both Wallace and La Guardia is in New York state.

It is not hard to understand what the Peoples party will mean. Wallace claims that he hopes to elect a "useful number" of third party congressmen in 1948. It is just possible that he might put over a handful of men from New York City or from California, where the Democratic organization shows signs of coming apart at the seams. In so doing, he will not only elect any Republican who may be nominated for president, but he will also, by splitting the Democratis party in many key industrial areas, assure an Eighty-first congress several degrees to the right of the Eightieth.

This will mean that the stodgiest wing of the Republican old guard will be firmly in the legislative saddle. Thus in turn Dewey, or any other moderate Republican president, will have enormous difficulty in dealing really decisively with an economic crisis at home or a political crisis abroad. And that is precisely what the Communists, who with their stooges are the real sparkplugs of the third party movement, want.

THE FLAGPOLE SITTER

A Treatsie on the Proper Handling of Snakes

I LIKE most to write about humble things and humble people—the pleasant, wholesome things of life. But I can write about termites, skunks and snakes too. So I'm going to do a piece on Communists and the lily-livered pinks who hover by their dens.

* * *

I believe with J. Edgar Hoover that the Communists are not a political party but are a conspiracy and fifth column. I believe they should be outlawed as a political party. I cannot understand why conspirators should have a vote in the state they would destroy; why they should enjoy the freedoms of loyal citizens.

We deny even physical freedom to a common thief who filches only our purse. We lock him up for years and deprive him of his citizenship. Yet the same thief, as a Communist, can plot to rob us of our all, our way of life, our church, our very souls And there are those who maintain he has that right under our system of free institutions.

That is the bunk! The sooner sound citizens push definitely into the class of the Communists themselves all so-called Americans who pamper them in politics, unions, pink parlors and schools, the sooner will America be on its way back to the things for which its fathers and sons gave their lives.

* * *

I wonder what the vote on this would be if we could poll the hallowed spots across our land, the poppy fields abroad, the graves at sea, the scattered tombs around the globe—grim markers of lives put out to save a precious heritage which fools would throw away?

Would your father, husband, son or friend say that foreign ideologies and American traitors should hide behind the freedoms for which they fought, whilst destroying everything for which they died?

Do you want any part of this betrayal of brave men who died to keep you free? Were you one of their buddies who but for luck would rest among them now? Have you a son or a daughter you are raising for gun-fodder to satisfy pagan greed for domination and domain?

Are you going to let crackpots with high titles and degrees sugarcoat sedition with freedom which was meant for you? Because you can't match their honeyed words, their compounded philosophy, their double-talk, because they're smart and you just honest, can they make you think that anybody has a right to destroy everything that you hold dear?

Do you want to do something about it? Want to do it in your home, office, shop, club, union and on the street? Okay, then I'll tell you what you do:

* * *

Don't be sucked in by those who try to rationalize Communists, their diabolical aims, methods or their rights. The higher the source of such smooth talk, the more intelligent the author of it, the more dangerous it is.

Never mind that you can't answer the hifalutin' arguments you hear. Just put down in your little book that any source from which they come is something to suspect and guard against. If it sounds bad enough to you, report it and the one from whom it comes.

Just stand up on your own hind legs, reject it all and anybody who says it. Don't join or sign anything you haven't known all about from way back. Don't compromise an inch. Be as steadfast as you are to the faith of your fathers. Don't be a sucker

Just be an old-fashioned American!

"Speed Tax" Starts At 40 Miles an Hour

By The Associated Press

HARTFORD, Conn. — Motorists who habitually operate their cars at high speeds are paying a heavy "speed tax" as well as risking their lives, the Aetna Life Affiliated says.

An increase in speed from 40 to 60 miles an hour will increase gasoline consumption 50 per cent, tire wear 350 per cent and oil consumption 400 per cent. Tire wear and gasoline and oil consumption increase comparatively slowly at speeds up to 40 miles an hour, but they all increase sharply at this point, making higher speeds extremely wasteful of rubber, gasoline and oil.

Alcoholic Therapy

By International News Service

NEW YORK—Using personal counselling methods, New York City's Bureau of Alcoholic Therapy last year cured 200 alchohlics for what it annually costs the city to handle 12 chronic drunks in municipal courts, hospitals, and jails. The bureau's 1946 budget was just 23 thousand dollars yet 200 out of 251 alcoholics treated were rehabilitated successfully according to information cited by the American Public Welfare Association.

Dear Nephew: It's a funny thing. When I lo at newspaper pictures I keep thinking I ha seen them before and the explanation has occurred to me, I have seen them before.

Years ago, the first newspaper photographe took the originals of the pictures which new papers have used ever since. They look a pi ture of a dog taking care of kittens, or a taking care of puppies, and that same pictu has been used ever since. A shutter-snapper f ured men would look at a picture of a shape gal in a bathing suit, and that picture has be worked to death.

A newspaper could go to press indefinite with a few dozen standard pictures, such as of a pile of junk to represent the "death car a snowscape to show what it looked like after snowed—a blurred shot of action in a footb game—a thuggish-looking character with his h in front of his face. These same pictures co be used over and over again, with changes the underlines. That's practically what is be done now, except the photographers keep tak new pictures of the same old subjects.

Every newspaper needs in its reporters a p ture of a man making a speech. The man's mou should be open and his arms should be wavi All men making speeches look alike.

Two or three pictures showing kiddies wou be needed. There could be kiddies waiting f Santa Claus, Fourth of July, or a bus, whic ever happened to be the occasion.

There would be one picture of a cornerston laying. All cornerstone layings look alike—a l of people in their good clothes—on the verge getting their hands dirty, if they aren't careful

For papers with rural circulations the should be a picture of a farmer looking puzzle This would serve for drouth, floods, high an low prices of farm commodities, etc. Whatever happens, the farmer looks puzzled.

We'd need a picture of a bride, with a flowi veil concealing most of her features, both goo and bad; a group of men in track suits lookin like fellows interrupted in the process of getti dressed; a group of ladies getting their hea together because they are members of the sam committee; a picture of a Japanese man and picture of a Japanese woman—because a Japanese look alike; an interior view of a movi script factory, for industrial illustrations, sever views of ball players looking like talent disco ered in the state penitentiary; a head-an shoulders view of a horse; half a dozen shots funny men making funny faces to pep up stori about radio comedians; a three-quarters view a party-bald man smoking a pipe to illustra stories about authors, poes and painters; a se tion of a crowd to prove to the skeptical publ that someone attended; some side shots of fir fighters; half a dozen landscapes; several vie of houses, ranging from hovels to castles, show where the tragedy occurred; and a pictu of a man with no distinguishable features

This picture would show what Joe Doak looks like to everybody but Joe, when he ge his picture in the paper. With these as standa equipment, a newspaper could operate indef nitely, and please do not take this rioting heart. There is, after all, nothing new under t sun, just variations on the same old theme Tell the boy I got his letter and am lookin formal invitation to come visit us this summe I suppose he understood this was a stand invitation and needed no renewals.

SENATOR KEEPS OHIO TURNPIKE HOPE ALIVE

By Brush-Moore Newspapers Service

EAST LIVERPOOL, June 23—State Sen. Johnathan C. Mason of East Liverpool has not abandoned hope for passage of his bill creating a nine-man commission to make a study of the construction of a turn-pike through Ohio although the measure still is "buried" in committee.

Home for a few days before returning to Columbus for the wind-up of the legislature on June 30, Sen. Mason has hopes for a special session when he will launch a campaign to get his bill out of committee and before the two branches of the legislature for a vote.

Introduced about three months ago, the measure is in the hands of the highways and automotive committee, where it was referred following its presentation. It provides for the appointment of a nine-man commission, three from the senate, three from the house and three members-at-large to be named by the governor.

With the state highway department, the group would study the feasibility of constructing and maintaining a turnpike through Ohio. The commission would be required to report to the state legislature before any further action would be taken toward the construction of such a road.

LABOR BILL

because he does not believe in "superimposing another layer of complicated federal law and machinery on top of an act that, itself, for the most part should be repealed."

He presumably referred to the Wagner labor relations act.

"The solution lies in the defeat of the (Democratic) administration in 1948, so that the goverment may assume, in relation to worker-management disagreement, the role of making the rules and fairly administering them," Malone said in a statement.

Was In "Doubtful" List

O'Connor was one of a group of "doubtful" senators who were invited to the White House last Friday for luncheon with the President. Of this group, only Senator Sparkman (D-Ala) had announced he will switch from support of the bill to support of the veto.

O'Connor said:

"While I believe the pending measure can be improved in several particulars, and that experience will make possible its improvement, I am of a definite opinion that the bill, as passed, is for the best interests of our country."

Believing the measure certain to go on the statute books, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), one of the authors, called for appointment of "outstanding citizens" to the enlarged national labor relations board which the measure provides.

Senators agreed on the timing of the vote Saturday before adjourning after a 30 hours, 22 minutes filibustering session kept going by the President's supporters to delay a showdown.

Overriding the veto would place on the president the primary responsibility for administration of the law which he said in his veto message would be "unworkable," "cause more strikes, not fewer" and "do more harm than good."

Confident that the senate would approve the measure, Taft told a reporter he is just as confident that Mr. Truman will do the best he can to make it work.

"Otherwise," Taft said, "he would be stultifying himself."

The Ohio senator, who played a leading part in drafting the measure, said he regards the role of the new five-member national labor relations board and its counsel of primary importance in successful administration of the proposed law.

"The President ought to appoint outstanding citizens as members of the board and to fill the counsel post, because the latter is especially important," Taft said.

He added that he assumes, without knowing anything of the President's intentions, that the three present members of the board will hold over. They are Paul M. Herzog, chairman, John H. Houston, and James J. Reynolds Jr.

Taft said he has no specific names in mind for the other two places or the counsel spot.

WANT EASIER WAY TO OVERRIDE VETO

WASHINGTON, June 23—Two hotly disputed presidential vetoes in a single week stirred talk on Capitol Hill today of a constitutional amendment making it easier for congress to override White House objections to legislative acts.

Voicing publicly the privately expressed sentiments of many of his colleagues, Rep. Arends (Ill) said he is considering a proposal calling for only a majority vote of the elected members of each branch of congress.

The Constitution now requires a two-thirds vote in the senate and the house before legislation can become law over a veto.

The house failed by two votes to override Mr. Truman's veto of the Republican tax reduction bill last Tuesday. But it ran up a vote of nearly four to one in favor of passing the Taft-Hartley labor bill over President Truman's objections.

MRS. ANIELLO A. SPARACO

Couple Exchange Wedding Vows at St. Mary Church

A NUPTIAL high mass in the St. Mary Catholic church Saturday morning solemnized the marriage of Miss Lena Marie Nicolosi, daughter of Mrs. Mary Nicolosi of 120 Waterloo street, and Aniello A. Sparaco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marco Sparaco of Dayton, O. The ceremony was read at 9:30 o'clock and the Very Reverend William J. Spickerman V. F., was the celebrant for the mass.

Miss Boyd And Walter Michael Wed at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, June 23—In one of the loveliest weddings of the season Miss Beverly Jean Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boyd of Elmwood Heights, Galion, became the bride of Walter Roelle Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus Saturday afternoon at First Methodist church in Galion. The couple said their vows in a single ring service with Rev. Norman R. Somerville officiating. Cibotium ferns, white gladioli and roses were arranged before the altar which was illuminated by tapers in seven-branch candelabra.

Wearing a gown of candlelight satin with Alencon lace bodice and sleeves, the bride completed her costume with a crownless heart shaped tiara of lace trimmed with seed pearls which caught her two-tiered veil of illusion. Her jewelry was a large single diamond mounted on a platinum chain, gift of the groom's paternal grandmother, Mrs. C. H. Michael Sr. of Bucyrus. A white orchid surrounded by lillies of the valley formed her bridal bouquet. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her maid of honor was her youngest sister, Miss Ann Boyd of Galion, and two bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Secrest of Ann Arbor, Mich., another sister, and Mrs. John Painter of Columbia, S. C., a cousin. All of the attendants wore gowns of chartreuse faille fashioned with long sleeves, off shoulders and bustle effect. They wore matching crownless bonnets of chartreuse tulle with flowers attached. The maid of honor carried a sheath of deep red roses, and the bridesmaids carried sheaths of roses and blue delphinium.

James S. Michael served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Richard Secrest of Ann Arbor, Mich., brother-in-law of the bride, John J. Karwales of Chicago, William Beale of Bucyrus and Cedomir Sliepcevich of Butte, Mont. A program of organ music was played by Miss Dorothy Plack, church organist.

MRS. JASPER A. VACCA

Marion - Bexley Couple Wed in St. Mary Church

MISS CARMELLA THERESE LUPICA, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lupica of 221 North Prospect street became the bride of Jasper A. Vacca, son of Mrs. Marion Vacca of Bexley, O., in a double ring ceremony June 7 at St. Mary church with the Very Reverend Father William J. Spickerman celebrating the nuptial high mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory slipper satin, styled with a sweetheart neckline and a low-waisted bodice with tiny self-covered buttons extending below the waistline in the back. The long fitted sleeves ended in points and the skirt was tiered with the predominating tier accentuating the long train. The lace edged veil of bridal illusion was gathered to a crown of braided satin. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Virginia Lupica, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of brocaded satin and net of a light blue shade fashioned with a full skirt and three quarter length sleeves. She carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations with matching streamers. Her headdress was a band of carnations held with satin bows. Mrs. Ann Dicken of Dayton, another sister was her only bridesmaid. She wore a gown styled identically to the one worn by the maid of honor in a light blue shade and carried white carnations. Edward Vacca, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. George Lupica, brother of the bride, and Donald Basler were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lupica chose a navy blue crepe costume with white accessories and wore a corsage of shattered pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony a breakfast for members of the immediate families and close friends was held at Harding Hotel. The table, decorated with pink and blue candles, the bride's colors, held a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom beneath wedding bells. A reception at the home of the bride's parents was held later.

A buffet supper for the bridal party was given following the rehearsal. The bride's gifts to her attendants were earrings and a strand of pearls. The groom presented his best man with a tie clasp and a billfold and key chain to each of the ushers.

For her traveling costume Mrs. Vacca chose a two-piece grey gabardine suit with which she combined lemon-blossom accessories. Upon their return from Canada they will make their home at 1191 Denbridge Way in Columbus.

Labor Bill Has Broad Effect Over Workers and Employers

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

...SHINGTON, June 23 — ...s a brief ABC on the Taft-...ey labor bill and what led ...t.

...By nightfall today it will be ...w it will be dead ...ne, the house re-passed it ... President Truman's veto ...Senate votes today. It is re-...es the bill its law at once. ...It's killed.

...all its history congress has never passed a bill which affects labor and management in so many ways.

If it becomes law, you'll be reading about it ... for years to come.

James Marlow

It's so big it's so complicated, and it does so many things that the wisest labor lawyer right now can't tell you all it means or would do.

For that reason many suits and test cases will be taken in... to federal courts to get decisions on what this or that means.

For 150 years in this country unions fought to force employers to bargain with them. No law said a boss had to bargain with a union.

To gain their point, union struck. Frequently a boss would get federal judges to order them, by injunction, not to strike.

In 1932 congress gave organized labor its first big help. It passed the Norris-LaGuardia act.

This law practically made it impossible for a boss to get a court order stopping a strike. This strengthened unions' bargaining power a bit.

But there still was no law compelling a boss to bargain with a union. Labor got this in 1935 when congress passed the Wagner act.

This act, in brief, did two main things. It said:

▶A boss has to bargain with a union of his workers. It didn't say a union has to bargain with a boss. The union could stall if it wanted.

▶The boss can't be unfair to unions, such as threatening to fire a man if he joins a union.

(The national labor relations board (NLRB), set up to administer the Wagner act could, with the help of courts, make a boss stop being unfair.)

Unions Grow Strong

In the 12 years since 1935, by grace of the Wagner act, unions have grown tremendously strong, too strong to suit some people, including congressmen.

Critics of the Wagner act said it gave unions all the benefits and bosses none.

Now this year congress has passed the Taft-Hartley bill to put restrictions on unions.

It puts more restrictions on them than they've had in all history.

The bill would make changes in the Wagner act and add some new things of its own.

From here on, for simplicity's sake, this story will assume the bill becomes law today through senate action. Here are some of its main points:

1. Employers still are compelled to bargain with unions. But now unions must bargain with a boss. They can't stall him.

2. Closed shop—where everyone must be a union member—are forbidden. The Wagner act permitted closed shops.

3. In spite of the Norris-LaGuardia act, the government can get injunctions to hold up for 80 days strikes endangering national health and welfare.

4. Bosses are freer now to tell workers what they think about a union. The bosses had to be pretty careful under the Wagner act.

5. A boss doesn't have to bargain with a union if any of its officers are Communists. The Wagner act said nothing about this.

6. Bosses don't have to bargain with their foremen, even though they join a union. The Wagner act ignored this.

7. Unions can't charge "excessive" dues. The Wagner act put no limit on this.

8. Unions and bosses can't break contracts without being liable for damage suits. The Wagner act didn't cover this.

9. Unions can't commit "unfair" labor practices (there's a list of them). Under the Wagner act, bosses were forbidden such practices.

The list of dos and dont's is very long.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rexsol Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

MARSHALL DEFENDS AID FOR NEIGHBORS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 23—Secretary of State Marshall told congress today that the western hemisphere must get together on the type of arms it uses "for our own security and our own well being."

Testifying before the house foreign affairs committee on the administration's arms standardization bill, Marshall said that if the United States failed to furnish arms to the other countries in the western hemisphere, some other country would. He added:

"We may be sure that if we are not willing to assist our Latin American friends as well as Canada * * * in the procurement of arms and in obtaining instruction and training for their military personnel, they will of necessity seek this help elsewhere."

Asked by Chairman Eaton (R-NJ) whether he thinks the measure is in "full accord" with the United Nations, Marshall replied:

"I do, sir."

Marshall said that during world war two this country was "very seriously embarrassed by the lack of just such legislation as your committee is considering." He estimated the prgoram may cost only $10,000,000 a year.

4 FISHERMEN DROWN AT LAKE ST. MARYS

By The Associated Press

ST. MARYS, O., June 23—State conservation department boatmen waited today for the waves of Lake St. Marys to subside before dragging for the bodies of four men who drowned in the wind-churned waters Saturday.

At a Lima hospital suffering exposure and shock, Roger Lee 34, and his brother, Harry D., 32, of Lima, O., only members of the fishing party of six to survive the capsizing of two rowboats, described how they held on for 10 hours to an overturned boat before their cries were heard from shore and they were rescued Saturday night.

They saw their companions weaken and drop off one by one, even as they heard the sound of oars of rescue boats approaching.

Drowned were Harry E. Lee, 53, of Lima, father of the Lee brothers; his brother-in-law, George Gawson, 60, of Head River, Ore., and Gawson's sons, Joseph 32, a student at Wheaton college, Illinois, and Paul, 40, of Veterans' hospital, Indianapolis.

Ultrafax was developed by Radio Corporation of America, and will be ready for a public showing some time this summer. Trammell said this is the way it works:

"Each printed page is treated as a * * * picture and (is) flashed in rapid succession. At the receiving end, the pages are reproduced by new high-speed photographic processes for quick delivery."

Trammell told a senate interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee that the new process may mean that the newspaper of the future will be delivered by radio.

Oil Pipe Lines Will Blanket State

Ohio is one of the seven states in the U. S. that uses more than a billion and a half gallons of gasoline yearly. Only California, Illinois, New York and Texas exceed Ohio's consumption. Ohio this year will need nearly 500,000 gallons of "gas" every day. To supply this immense volume when and where needed requires hundreds of bulk distributing points, tank cars, pipe lines, barges and terminals. One of the half dozen largest supplying companies, Sinclair, has almost completed an extensive products pipe line system covering a large part of the State, connected both from Eastern and Western refineries.

The map above shows this system and gives an idea of the widespread installation involving the outlay of many millions of dollars required to enable a single company to supply a part of Ohio's needs for gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products.

Sinclair has issued for free distribution a large size map of the State with colored illustrations of the principal points of historical interest, its industries and other useful information.

CUBS WIN TWO OUT OF THREE WEEKEND GAMES AT DAYTON

Close Gap on Zanesville, Now Trail Leaders by 5½ Games

By DON C. BURTON

DAYTON, O., June 23—The Marion Cubs split a doubleheader here yesterday after walking to an easy win Saturday night to give them a record of 15 wins in the last 20 games.

The Cubs won Saturday in a walkathon 24 to 12 and in another contest of the same kind in the opener last night, 13 to 8, but lost the seven-inning finale 4 to 2.

The two wins connected with two losses and one win of the Zanesville Dodgers at Richmond over the weekend moved the Cubs up to within five and one-half games of the leaders. The "Little Bums" came to Marion Thursday for a five-game series including a doubleheader Sunday. Marion goes to Springfield tonight and tomorrow will help the Giants raise last year's pennant while A. B. (Happy) Chandler, commissioner of baseball and Frank M. Colley of the Ohio State league look on.

Frank Sabens started for the Cubs Saturday night and left the game during a big Dayton rally in the third inning. Although Marion was leading at the time he entered the game Frank Smith, who pitched fine relief ball, gained his first victory of the season.

In the first game last night John Edington started and got credit for the win for his seventh although relieved in the seventh by John Graney, new southpaw. Graney took over with the bases full and one out and retired the side without further trouble in his first appearance in pro ball.

Ed Witowski hurled the seven-inning nightcap and was defeated by a three-run Dayton uprising in the fifth after Marion had assumed a 2-1 lead.

Newark in Battle To Stay in First Division of O.S.L.

By The Associated Press

The Newark Browns — a few days ago second-place club of the Ohio State league—today faced a scrap to remain in the first division.

The Browns dropped a doubleheader to Muncie and the Springfield Giants copped a twinbill from Lima Sunday, and as a result Newark dropped into a tie with Dayton for fourth-place, only a half game in front of the sixth-place Springfield Giants.

Zanesville's Dodgers, who divided two games at Richmond, Ind., yesterday, remained comfortably in the loop lead. The Dodgers piled up seven runs from walks to win the opener 12 to 4, but lost the nightcap 3 to 1, getting only three safe blows.

Carl Hosaler, Springfield third baseman, clouted a homer in each game for the Giants as they beat Lima's last place Terriers 3 to 2 and 6 to 5.

Seventh place Muncie's 14 to 2 and 6 to 2 triumphs over Newark gave the Indians club a sweep of its three-game series with the Browns at Muncie. Second baseman Howard Locke of Muncie had two triples in the opener, and shortstop Tom Florence's double with the bases filled was the key blow of the nightcap.

Sons of Pros in Battle for Crown

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 23 — Three sweet-swatting golf pros who learned the game from fathers who also were professionals, rode into the semi-finals of the national open PGA championship here today along with ex-champion Vic. Ghezzi, former caddy who beat Byron Nelson in the 1941 finals at Denver.

The second-generation pros, two of them for the second time in a national PGA tournament, are Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Northville, Mich., Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and 33-year-old Art Bell of Colma, Calif.

The quartet constituted the last survivors of an original field of 64 who started upset-packed match play competition last Friday on Plum Hollow Golf club's long, treacherous championship layout.

Ghezzi, 36-year-old native of Rumson, N. J., slapped down the national open champion, Lew (The Chin) Worsham of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2, for his fourth and closest match play triumph here to collide in the lower-bracket semi-windup with Harbert, home-grown dark-haired slugger who was the fair-haired favorite of the big gallery in his 2 up victory over 38-year-old Leland Gibson on Kansas City, Mo.

Bell, staved off a rousing rally by Ky (Chief) Laffoon, Cherokee Indian now playing out of St. Andrews, Ill., to win his quarter-final struggle against Ferrier, who tripped 1946 national open champion Lloyd Mangrum, 4 and 3.

Winners of today's Ferrier-Bell and Ghezzi-Harbert battles will clash in the 36-hole finals tomorrow.

Indefinite Suspension Slapped on Hen's Catcher

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 23—Catcher Boris Martin of the Toledo American Association baseball club today was under indefinite suspension pending further investigation by the loop president, Frank C. Lane, of Martin's clash with an umpire at Minneapolis. The incident happened following a close play at first.

Lane also fined Frank Snyder, manager of the Mudhens, $50 for failure to control his players and for arguing and delaying the game. A fine of $25 was slapped on Toledo outfielder Albert White for burglesquing the umpire.

SEMI-PRO GRID TEAM EYES NEXT SEASON

New League Set-up Explained at Meeting.

The Marion semi-pro football team for 1947 was pre-viewed at Hotel Harding Saturday night, and it looked like the team won't be wanting for material.

Most of the players who were with the team last year were present, as well as a number of prospective candidates.

This year the Marion club will play under the banner of the Marion Angels. Gene Fetter will again act as head coach and he will be assisted in his duties by Martin Lewis, team captain last year.

Predominatly made up of Marion players, a number of hopefuls from surrounding towns were present at the meeting.

The new Inter-State Semi-pro football league composed of Marion, Dayton, Mendon, Lockland, Indianapolis, Ind., and Sheridan, Ind. was explained to the players.

A number of the players have been working out at Harding field this summer, and practice will start in earnest about mid-August of baseball."

Improvements Made To Benefit Fans at Racing Program Here

Once again the fans are considered in plans being made for the Little Grand Circuit races, which will be held here July 1-19.

For the first time, since the meet was inaugurated, it will be possible to reserve seats in the grandstand. This can be done by calling 4104 or 6728 and tickets can also be reserved at the grand stand.

Mutuels will be placed out from under the grandstand to allow free passage to the refreshments stands.

The ticket booth also will be removed from under the stand.

The blacktopping under the stand should keep many a shoe from getting dusty.

The race meet is shaping up, as being the biggest, in regard to entries, ever staged locally, and Frank Foster, president of the Marion Trotting association in charge of the races, has stated that he believes it will be the biggest harness race event ever staged in Ohio.

A record turnout is expected to witness. Bleachers to accommodate about 1,500 persons have been set up at the north end of the grandstand. They are of tubular steel frame work and are of temporary construction. Sections of the bleachers will be set up in buildings at the fair in August where people will gather to witness exhibits or shows.

Races will be held in the afternoon and evening of July 4, the only double-bill of the meet.

Four Association Teams Win Twin Bills on Sunday

By The Associated Press

There was considerable reshuffling in the American Association standing today after a Sunday of doubleheader sweeps for four teams.

Minneapolis vaulted from sixth to fourth by walloping Milwaukee 15-7 and 14-5. The Millers spotted the Brews six runs in the first inning of the opener then clinched matters by scoring seven times in the fourth and five in the fifth. Bama Ray's two run-homer and circuit blows by Jack McQuire and Mo Mozzali touched off the Miller's scoring surge.

In the nightcap, McGuire paced the Millers 17-hit assault with four hits in five trips.

Kansas City disposed of St. Paul 4 to 0 as Frank Miller registered his second straight shutout against the Saints and his seventh victory of the season against one loss. The Blues captured the closer 2-1, coming from behind in the seventh to win on singles by Hank Bauer and Blas Monaco.

Indianapolis beat Toledo in the opener 8 to 2 with the aid of three errors and the eight-hit pitching of Bob Malloy, who was denied a shutout when Whitey Platt homered in the ninth after a walk to Red McQuillen. Ben Guinunn and Stan Wentzel homered for the Tribe. Ernie Andres smashed his fifth homer of the season to give the Indians a 1-0 nightcap decision and uphold Manny Perez's four-hit pitching.

Columbus was held to a total of five hits in both games by southpaw Joe Ostrowski and right-hander Lum Harris as Louisville took 2-0 and 3-2 victories.

Tonight is "pennies for Jim Wilson night" in Louisville where the fans are expected to donate 50,000 pennies to the Colonel hurler who suffered a broken leg when struck by a batted ball last month.

SCHLAIRET DEFEATED BY ADA TEAM HERE

Ada Moose handed Schlairet Transfer an 11-8 beating at McKinley park yesterday afternoon in a 10-inning tilt.

Harold Dillion, Schlairet's leading hitter with four, stole home in the eighth to tie things up.

Because Don Kay was out of town and King Bacon had a sore arm Schlairet was unable to send a regular hurler against Ada. Doc Reed started and was shooed in the first, Kenny Somerlot taking over.

Ed Sandy, former Lima pitcher, worked for Ada looking good all the way.

Next Sunday Schlairet will play at Magnetic Springs against Incor Hotel. Poke Howard, pitcher for Miami university this spring, who didn't give up a loss, is with that club.

Robinson To Bid For Welterweight Title

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 23 — Ray (Sugar) Robinson will make a concerted bid for the world's middleweight boxing championship whether he wins or loses against Jimmy Doyle in his first welterweight title defense here tomorrow night.

"They are forcing us into it," Sugar's manager, George Gainford, declared.

"Except for Doyle, none of the leading welterweights will have anything to do with Ray," Gainford maintained. "And on top of that Ray already has beaten three of the outstanding contenders for the middleweight title. If he has to fight middleweights, he might just as well fight for the championship of that division, too."

Gainford explained that Robinson has no intention of giving up the welterweight championship to get a crack at the 160-pound crown.

"There is no law or commission rule which can make him do that," he said.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Carl Furillo, Dodgers—Homered with the bases loaded and singled twice to drive in seven runs and lead the Dodgers to a 9-4 victory in the second game of a doubleheader with Cincinnati after the Reds had won the opener 4-0.

Pitching—Ewell Blackwell, Reds—Pitched eight straight hitless and scoreless innings in shutting out the Dodgers 4-0 to extend his string of 15 consecutive hitless and scoreless innings. He hurled a no-run no-hit game his previous start.

WILLIAMS GIVEN TROPHY

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, June 23 — Perhaps there are more eloquent big league ball players but there aren't any who could have been more sincere than Ted Williams when "The Kid" accepted a plaque honoring him as the American league's most valuable player in 1946. Between games of yesterday's doubleheader, which the Red Sox split with the Cleveland Indians, Ted was presented the Kenesaw Mountain Landis trophy. "I want to thank the baseball writers," Williams said. "This is the greatest thrill that I've got out of baseball."

2 Blows in Ninth Spoil Second "No-Hit" Game for Blackwell

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tall Ewell Blackwell, the lanky Cincinnati side-arm mound artist, although somewhat disappointed over his hairline failure to duplicate Johnny Vander Meer's record of pitching two consecutive no hitters, enjoyed the distinction today of being the major league's "winningest" pitcher.

Blackwell followed his hitless and runless masterpiece of June 18 against the Boston Braves with another brilliant pitching performance against the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday.

The bony six-foot, five-inch elbower came within two putouts of registering his second straight no-run no-hit game as he retired the Dodgers in the first eight innings without a safety. He got rid of the first man to face him in the ninth, but Eddie Stanky drove a sharp ground ball past his legs into center field for a clean base hit to spoil his dream. Jackie Robinson followed with another single before Blackwell retired the side for a 4-0 victory.

Furillo Hits Homer

Brooklyn outfielder Carl Furillo walloped a home run with the bases full against righthander Elmer Riddle and hit two singles against righthanded pitchers to drive in seven runs and lead the Brooks to a 9-8 victory in the second game.

The Braves won an 11-inning game from the Chicago Cubs 8-7 when Dick Culler singled off Johnny Schmitz to drive in Phil Masi. It was a pair of round trippers by Boston's Frank McCormick and Bob Elliott with two out in the ninth which forced the game into overtime.

Lloyd Gearhart's 11th home run with Buddy Kerr on base gave the New York Giants a 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, ending the Redbirds' winning streak at nine games.

Rookie Catcher Larry (Yogi) Berra highlighted a five-run first inning by hitting a home run with the bases loaded to lead the New York Yankees to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers, the Bengals' ninth straight defeat.

Split Two

The second place Red Sox and Cleveland Indians divided a double header at Boston, the Indians taking the opener 8-2 behind the veteran Mel Harder and losing the second game 6-3.

Carl Scheib, the Philadelphia Athletics' 20-year-old righthander, won his third successive start and chalked up his second shutout by defeating the Chicago White Sox 3-0 in the second game of a doubleheader after the Sox won the opener on an unearned run 1-0 in 10 innings.

The Washington Senators and St. Louis Browns split a doubleheader, the Senators eking out a 3-2 victory in the opener and the Browns slugging out a 9-6 win in the nightcap.

In a battle for last place in the National league, the Philadelphia Phillies outlasted the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 13 innings in the opener of a scheduled doubleheader. The nightcap, cancelled at the end of four innings by a Sunday 7 p. m. curfew found the Phils leading 8-6.

Blackwell Sad, But Takes Blame As Hits Come

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 23—Naturally disappointed, long Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's fireballing nightnander, blames only nimself for the sad fact that he came within two putouts of registering his second no-nit no-run game in a row here yesterday at the expense of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I should have shoved it in my pocket," he said, as he draped his six-five frame across a bench in the dressing room after the dramatic game, the opener of a twin bill before 31,204 stunned fans.

The Dodgers got to him for two hits after one man had been retired in the ninth, but the Reds won, 4-0, to give Blackwell his ninth straight and 11th victory of the season. He has lost two.

Here's what happened in that thrilling ninth inning:

Gene Hermanski was first up for Brooklyn, batting for relief pitcher Joe Behrman. He stepped into the first pitch and poled an easy out to Augie Galan in left field.

Crowd Roars

The crowd cut loose with an ear-splitting roar. Two more outs to go.

Ed Stanky, peppery little second baseman, sauntered to the plate. He sliced a hit single through Blackwell for the first hit off the sophomore pitcher in 19 innings.

The damage had been done.

Al Gionfriddo flied out. Jackie Robinson then singled to right, to send Stanky to third, but Carl Furillo grounded out to Babe Young at first base to end the ball game.

Thin shoulders sagging, Blackwell walked to the dugout, surrounded by his sympathetic teammates. It seemed like minutes, before the crowd could muster a cheer worthy of a great performer.

Not So Tight

In the comparative seclusion of the dressing room, Blackwell said he was not as "tight" in that final inning as he was when he took the hill for the last three outs against the Boston Braves last Wednesday to complete the first no-hitter in the major leagues this season.

Thirty-one Dodgers faced Blackwell. He fanned six and gave up three bases on balls.

If Blackwell had delivered his second no-hitter in less than a week, he would have duplicated a performance by Johnny Vander Meer, a teammate. On June 19, 1938, Vander Meer hurled a no-hitter against Boston and four days later subjected Brooklyn to the same treatment.

Indians Win Six of Ten Road Games

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 23—The Cleveland Indians' second eastern jaunt of the season can't be called a howling success, but the Tribesmen still were on the black side of the ledger as they moved here today for the opening of a three-game series with the league leading Yankees.

The Redskins now have won six out of ten in the east and a creditable showing against the erstwhile Bronx Bombers will keep them in the thick of the pennant chase.

Mel Harder, dean of the Tribe's mound corps, provided the bright spot yesterday as the Indians divided a double header with the Boston Red Sox for an even split in the four-game series.

The 37-year-old right hander, now in his 20th season with Cleveland, scattered seven hits, three of which never saw the outfield grass, in recording his fourth straight victory in the first game, 8 to 2.

Red Embree was roughly treated in the nightcap and the Sox won, 6 to 3, to salvage some joy for Boston's record home crowd of 34,863 customers.

The split gave the Indians undisputed possession of fourth place, a half a game ahead of the slumping Detroit Tigers, but they fell another notch behind the Yankees, whom they now trial by five and a half games.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"WELL," Dicky queried as he finished reading aloud to me, at my request, the letter I had written about Mary's plight to his sister, Harriet Braithwaite, "have you any amendments? If you have, I warn you to make 'em snappy. This sounds good to me, and I'm anxious to get it in the mail."

"No, you may seal it if you will," I said slowly. "I don't think I have anything to add to the letter. But what do you think of telephoning Harriet at her Detroit home, to make sure she's there?"

"A really brilliant idea," he said with an approving grin. "One of your better efforts, in fact! If she isn't there, you can find out the address at which a wire will reach her. And if she is, you can arrange to have her wire or telephone an affirmative or negative answer to Mary's fear in language ambiguous enough to puzzle any possible listeners-in."

"I'm glad you approve," I told him. "And I'll telephone her immediately."

"Yes," my husband agreed, "I'll have to know her present whereabouts before I mail this letter."

I was on my way to the telephone as he spoke, and in an incredibly short time I was talking to Dicky's stately sister in Detroit. But I wasted no time after my warm greeting of her.

Something Important

"Dicky wishes to speak to you about something important," I said, resolved that this family situation must not be discussed by an "in-law," even though Harriet Braithwaite and I are firm friends.

My husband shook his fist at me as I handed the telephone to him, but he took it, and squared his shoulders as he sat down in the chair before it.

"Yes, Harriet," he began. "Fine. All of us except poor Mary. Mother is getting along splendidly in the hospital. And you and Edwin? Good. Now I'll get down to cases about Mary. She's home from the hospital and her condition isn't so good. Here's the dope:

"Madge has written you a most important letter with a question in it. I'm mailing it immediately, special delivery and air mail, from the main post office. It ought to reach you tonight or tomorrow morning. You'll be at the Detroit address, I suppose. Yes? That's fine.

"Now there are reasons—you'll understand when you read the letter—why we can't discuss anything over the telephone. But as soon as you've read Madge's letter, will you call us here and give either an unqualified 'Yes' or 'No' to the question it asks? Then we can talk in ambiguous language. No, it isn't necessary for you to come here. In fact, nobody's seeing Mary except Madge and Katharine Bickett—you remember her—who are taking care of her. Yes, I'll call Madge. Good-bye. Take care of yourself!"

Madge Braces Herself

He beckoned me to the receiver, and I braced myself to withstand Harriet's questioning.

"What is Mary's real condition?" she began. "Is she in danger?"

"Yes and no, Harriet," I answered. "Please believe me—I can tell you nothing more over the telephone — you'll understand when you read my letter. And if you came on, I don't believe the physician would let you see her. We're keeping her very quiet. And don't think me uncomprehending or callous. I know what Mary means to you, and I'm trying to do for her what you would do. And from now on, I'll drop you an airmail special delivery every day, telling you just how she is."

I heard a quick catch of her breath, but her voice was calm as ever.

Will Look for Letters

"Thank you so much, Margaret," she said. "And I realize, of course, that I must not add to your burdens by coming to Mary. But I shall look every day for your letters. Did I hear Dicky right? Is Katharine Bickett with you? I trust this does not mean trouble again?"

"Oh, no!" I said quickly. "Jack had to go on, a brief trip to another continent for my father, and Katharine is staying at the hotel until his return. It is wonderful luck for Mary."

"I should imagine so," she said. "Please give her my very best love, and I am sure Edwin also will wish to be remembered to her. And remember if you need me, telephone me at once and I will be there."

"I'll do that," I promised, "and thank you. Good-bye."

"Good-bye, she replied, and as I hung up the receiver, Dicky impatiently waved my letter at me.

"I'm on my way to the post-office," he said.
